EXECUTIONS IN CHINA.

The Peculiar Customs Governing the Dispatch of Criminals.

From the St. Petersburg Globe.

Appropos of the sentence just pronounced on Chun Hou, formerly the Ambassador at this Court, Prof. Vasilieff furnishes the following explanations: According to the latest Pekin newspapers, Chun Hou, though condemned to be beheaded, is not to be immediately put to death, but kept in prison for the present. Capital sentences are promptly carried out in the case of insurgents and other classes of criminals, where delay might endanger the peace of the country. In such cases even the local magistrate is empowered to take life summarily if he deems it necessary. But ordinarily the executions take place simultaneously at the autumnal equinox, at which time the Emperor visits the Temple of Heaven to clear himself of the sin of shedding blood. Hence if an order criminal is sentenced the day after the autumnal equinox, he has a whole year of life yet before him. Moreover, for a certain time before the equinox, the Minister of Justice receives and examines the lists of the condemned from all parts of the empire, and reports to the Emperor the names of those the least deserving of clemency. The Emperor then orders some of them executed forthwith, and reprieves others for another year. The sealed lists of the doomed are carried to all parts of the empire by couriers. On a fixed day all the sentenced criminals are brought to a public place, where the lists are opened and the Emperor's orders carried out on the spot. Some are beheaded with a sword or common knife; some are strangled by being dragged over the ground, for the jibbet is not used in China. Beheading is regarded as more shameful than strangling, for the latter leaves the body whole, while the former dismembers it.

The Bird-Killing Spider.

The bird-killing spider, a monster from Bahia, with a hairy body three inches long and terrible claws, has recently been received in the Zoological Gardens in London. He hides under a bit of bark, from which he emerges to kill his prey, a mouse or a bird, or he will eat a dozen ship cockroaches in an hour. Unwarned by the fate of their comrades, the cockroaches walk up to the great insect to stare at him, and are caught up and devoured, one after another, as the followers of Ulysses by the Cyclops. The animal has his uses, and will at least serve to reduce the number of cockroaches by which the gardens are infested.

Infirm of Purpose.

Christian Shneider of Lancaster, Pa., vowed to wreak a frightful vengeance upon his wife and Moore, who eloped together. If he could only find them, so he said, he would instantly kill them both. His friend Ginder offered to search out the runaway pair, if Shneider would promise solemnly to punish them with death. Shneider readily promised; but when the wife was found, and she put her arms around him, kissed him, and begged for forgiveness, he was overjoyed and took her home unharmed. He even thanked Moore for giving her up without trouble. The disappointed and disgusted Ginder cursed the party and left them.

The Great Desideratum found at last. Castor oil made pleasant. Parry's palatable CASTOR OIL is equal in medicinal activity to the ordinary unprepared Castor Oil, but has a pleasant in place of a nauseous taste. It is easily taken and retained by the stomach, even of delicate persons. Children take it readily and make no fuss about it. Osburn & Shoemaker, Agents for Washoe County. apr17

THE STATE FUNDS AND THE SAVINGS BANK.

Mr. Crockett informs us that the money he took out of the bank this morning it suspended was in the nature of a special deposit which had accumulated in the course of the business of his office. He does not do any banking business in Carson because they charge him a commission. If parties deposit money due the State in the Reno Savings Bank they have heretofore been acquitted of the claim, the same as if it had been paid over the counter of the State Treasury in Carson. Mr. Crockett says this sum was $1084. There is some evidence, and it is generally believed, that Mr. Crockett drew out a much larger sum. The matter ought to be cleared up at once, and the books of the bank ought to show it. They should show who paid money in, how much and when, and at what time it was taken away by Mr. Crockett. Neither the public nor our State Treasurer should allow this matter to remain in doubt a moment longer than it will take to make out the figures. No one who knows Mr. Crockett will believe that he put this money in to save the tottering bank from falling, nor that he has drawn a dollar that he did not think was properly his right. But it is believed that money was taken out improperly by friends of the officers who, if they had money in the bank, should have taken their chances with the rest of the creditors.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Henry Dierking, of Williamsburg, New York, married the widow of a murdered man. One night, as Dierking lay in bed, the ghost of the murdered man appeared to him and ordered him to quit the premises. He jumped from the bed at once and left the house, regardless of the tears and lamentations of his wife. An agreement of separation followed, and the husband and wife lived apart for a time. One day she had him arrested for abandonment. He declared that he would be glad to live with her, but he could not stand the air of the ghost. Subsequently he sued for and obtained an absolute decree of divorce.

The Presidential battle will be fought in the States of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Connecticut and California. As to all the other States the contest may be said to be closed. The States mentioned have between them 94 Electoral votes. All the Solid South of 138 votes requires to elect the President is 47 of these 94 votes. —S. F. Bulletin.

A New York dispatch says: The general opinion among Republican and Tammany journals and the people is that the Democratic ticket is one of the strongest that could have been named. The idea commonly expressed is that the "bloody shirt" and personalities have been taken out of the campaign, and the battle must be fought on better and wider questions.

Susan B. Anthony invaded the Democratic Convention at Cincinnati, toward the close of the proceedings, and ascended the platform. She presented an appeal from the Woman's Suffrage Association, asking for the insertion of a Woman's Suffrage plank in the Democratic platform. The appeal was read to the Convention, but no action was taken on it.

More than usual interest attaches to the walking match now going on at San Francisco, from the motley character of the contestants. Twenty-six competitors started, of whom two are Mexican mail runners and four are Chinese vegetable peddlers. The match is for the diamond belt won by Frank Edwards last summer, and for cash prizes also.

The Democratic platform adopted at Cincinnati seeks to revive the Fraud bill for campaign purposes. The Democratic administration disposes of all this. If the Democrats believed that the Fraud bill had been shelved out of the office of President, consistency demanded his re-nomination. He was ready and anxious to serve. They did not re-nominate him, so that issue is ended.

General Hancock, if elected, would be a mere figure-head President. He knows nothing of legislative work, and would be compelled to seek the guidance of other men, who would practically be the Administration. Hancock is a soldier, not a statesman. Garfield, on the other hand, though a soldier, is a statesman too, and has had long experience in legislation.

A notice has appeared in a New Haven, Conn., paper, warning bathers against a monstrous sea serpent recently seen on the coast. The serpent is described as about 100 feet long, as large around as a beer keg, and with a body covered with shining scales. Now is this the "original and only" sea serpent, or is there more than one?

Nevada is represented in the Democratic National Executive Committee by J. C. Hagerman, California, by J. T. Farley. Oregon's representative has not yet been appointed.

The Truckee Republican states that there will be a mass meeting of the Washoe Indians near Carson on July 4th, to discuss the grievances between that tribe and the whites.

The trains of the Southern Pacific railroad now run to Benson, 46 miles east of Tucson, the railroad town of Tombstone. Progress has been slow of late at the San Pedro river crossing, owing to the heavy work and extreme hot weather. June 23d, however, of the day before, 3,600 feet of rail were laid, 7,300 in two days.

The annual examination of applicants for certificates to teach in the schools of Storey county will begin Monday. Near San Rafael the other day a large bear crossed the Bolinas road just in advance of a buggy in which a young lady and gentleman were seated. In the confusion of the moment, however, she was badly hugged by the gentleman, but was not seriously injured.

Word came in June 23d from the Washoe Placer mine, situated in the foothills of the Sierra, to the westward of Washoe lake and to the southward of Slide mountain, that the shaft had attained a depth of 107 feet. Some twenty years ago a great deal of course, smooth gold (regular California leaf gold) was taken out of a little ravine that leads in the hill whereon the present shaft is being sunk.

CARFIELD VINDICATED.

Judge Black's Letter Exonerating Garfield From All Guilty Connections With the Credit Mobiler.

From the N. Y. Evening Mail, June 17.

If there is a lawyer in this country who has a constitutional hatred of all public officials who show the slightest tendency toward corruption, it is Judge Jeremiah S. Black, a Democrat of Democrats. With full knowledge, after thorough investigation, he wrote the following letter, which we commend to the careful study of all intelligent and disinterested readers:

"PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 15, 1873.
"MY DEAR SIR: From the beginning of the investigation of Mr. Ames' use of the Credit Mobiler, I believe that Gen. Garfield was free from all guilty connection with that business. This opinion was founded not merely on my confidence in his integrity, but on some special knowledge of his case. I may have told you all about it in conversation, but I desire now to repeat it by way of reminder.

I assert unhesitatingly that whatever General Garfield may have done or forbore to do, he acted in profound ignorance of the nature and character of the thing which Mr. Ames was proposing to sell. He had not the slightest idea that he was to be taken into a ring organized for the purpose of defrauding the public, nor did he know that the stock was in any way connected with anything that came or could come within the legislative jurisdiction of Congress. The case against him lacks scienter, which alone constitutes guilt.

"In the winter of 1869-70 I told Gen. Garfield of the fact that Ames charged him with being one of his distributees; explained to him the character, origin and objects of the Credit Mobiler; pointed out the connection it had with Congressional legislation, and showed him how impossible it was for a member of Congress to hold stock in it without bringing his private interests in conflict with his public duty. That all of this was to him a perfectly new revelation I am as sure of as I can be of such a fact, or of any fact which is capable of being proved only by moral circumstance. He told me then the whole story of Train's offer to him and Ames' subsequent solicitation and his own action in the premises, much as he details it to the committee. I do not undertake to reproduce the conversation but the effect of it all was to convince me thoroughly that when he listened to Ames he was perfectly unconscious of anything evil. I watched carefully every word that fell from him on this point, and did not regard his narrative of the transaction in any other respect with much interest, because in my view everything else was insignificant. I did not care whether he made a bargain technically binding or not; his integrity depended upon whether he acted with his eyes open. If he had known the true character of the proposition made to him he would not have endured it, much less embraced it.

"Now, couple this with Mr. Ames' admission that he gave no explanation whatever of the matter to Gen. Garfield, then reflect that not a particle of proof exists to show that he learned anything about it previous to his conversation with me, and I think you will say that it is altogether unjust to put him on the list of those who knowingly and wilfully joined the fraudulent association in question. J. S. BLACK.
"Hon. J. G. Blaine, Speaker of the House of Representatives.
If the Herald and the Sun had any sense of fairness they would let their readers see this convincing testimony of a lawyer distinguished for his acuteness in detecting guilt—incipient or committed.

Col. Fred Grant Upon an Eminent Republican.

From the Chicago Tribune.

Col. Fred Grant seems to have been thrown entirely off his balance by the result of the Chicago Convention. The morning after the nomination he engaged in an excited political conversation with a fellow-passenger on an Indiana avenue car. Speaking so loudly that no one could help overhearing him he declared that "Mr. Washburne was a G—d—d liar and fraud." A friend of Mr. Washburne, sitting near, requested Col. Grant not to speak in that way of that gentleman, whereupon the doughty young warrior repeated, with still more offensive emphasis, "Mr. Washburne is a G—d—d liar and fraud." This incident was witnessed by several persons, who came to the conclusion that Col. Grant resembles his great father only in name.

Shooting at Tombstone.

Tombstone, June 24th.—Mike Keller, barber of the Palace saloon, Tombstone, on the 23d inst. fired at Frank Leslie twice, making two scalp wounds. Leslie returned the fire and shot Keller in the breast and face, seriously wounding him. Keller says that a woman named Herin fired the shot that hit him in the breast, but Leslie denies that, and assumes all the responsibility. Jealousy was at the bottom of the trouble.

Why Tombstone was So Named.

Tombstone, in Pima county, Arizona, to an Eastern reader, may seem a queer name for a mining camp, but so it was named. A few years ago the Scheiffelin brothers went out there to prospect, and were advised, on account of Indian depredations, to have their tombstones engraved. They made rich discoveries, and in recognition of the kindly hint of their friends named the camp Tombstone. Now, to cap the climax, Tombstone has a paper called the Epitaph.

THE BANK FAILURE.

What Has Come to Light in Regard to the Matter.

There are many very disagreeable facts coming to light in connection with the failure of the Reno Savings Bank. The manager and the cashier of the institution are well known here, and have stood high in this community and this state, but from their own statements, but one conclusion is possible, and that is that they protected their friends at the expense of every one else. Mr. Kinkead, the manager, went to Virginia on Thursday, the 23rd, to raise money if possible. He failed to do so, and in the afternoon telegraphed to L. C. Batchelder, the cashier, not to close the door of the vault, which has a time lock. After his return home, Mr. Kinkead's uncle, James H. Kinkead, drew out over $14,000 00 and R. M. Clark of Carson, his brother-in-law, drew out over $800. Not long after Mr. Kinkead returned Mr. Batchelder took a team and drove to Carson, and L. L. Crockett, State Treasurer and Vice-President of the Bank, returned with him, arriving here at 5 o'clock in the morning.

THEY WENT TO THE BANK

and took out a lot of coin which Mr. Crockett says was all silver and in one sack, amounting to $1084. Mr. Crockett says this was all the money there was in the vault at the time, but that there were notes, stocks and other securities there. On the evening of the 24th Mr. Batchelder came to the bank and tried to unlock the door. He was prevented from doing so by a key on the inside of the lock, which proved to be that of the keeper put there by Sheriff Walker. He opened the door and Mr. Batchelder entered. The keeper says Mr. Batchelder filled up some blanks at the desk and asked permission to open the vault and lay them inside. He was refused, and though he argued and coaxed was still refused. He then put the papers in an envelope and left them on the desk. Sheriff Walker soon after put an attachment on them and then opened the envelope. He found one to be a check No. 7207, drawn by L. L. Crockett in favor of himself and marked paid June 23rd. The amount was $5628.38. The second paper was certificate No. 1602, in favor of Mrs. L. L. Crockett, dated April 16th, payable in three months, for $538 44. The third paper was certificate No. 1633, dated June 14th, in favor of L. L. Crockett for $1000 00, payable in six months. Thus it would seem that Mr. Crockett was paid over $1500 on certificates that were not due, and that he drew $5600 on his check, making in all over $7000 instead of $1084, as he claims. These figures agree with the statements of James H. Kinkead, the elder, that Mr. Crockett took all the state's money, amounting to about $7000. The directors and officers of the bank have been session all day but have accomplished nothing in the way of preparing a statement. Nothing can be told about the condition of the bank until the statement appears. Parties are buying the stock at twenty cents on the dollar.

CAPT. JIM ON THE INDIAN QUESTION

From an Interview in The Truckee Republican.

"Will the Washoes and Piutes fight?"
"Damfino," said Jim. "I think Piutes 'frail, and Washoes no want to at all."

Left the Girl to Pay the Bills.

A story comes from Beckworth at the expense of a young business man of that place. It appears that he invited a young lady of Jamison City to come to Beckworth and attend a ball with him, pointing out in his note that it was Leap-year. She duly arrived, and was escorted to the hotel by the young man, where a costly dinner was ordered and eaten. Then they repaired to the ball and after dancing all night, the young man slipped off to bed and left the girl to pay the bills. She liquidated, but has since transferred her affections to a young man of Johnstown.

Burglaries in Truckee.

Several burglaries have occurred at Truckee lately. Last week the house of postmaster Towner was entered and $80 stolen. Last Wednesday night a man broke into P. Sheridan's shoe shop, but was discovered and chased by the proprietor. The burglar stopped in his flight and fired two shots at his pursuer. The thief escaped. No arrests had been made up to last night. It is not improbable that the criminals who have been operating in Truckee may now be in Reno.

Personal.

G. W. Cunningham of Sierra valley, is in town.
G. W. Thomson of Virginia came this far with his wife and babies last night on their way to Dutch Flat.
Rev. C. B. Crawford of Eureka will come from Virginia this evening and be the guest of Rev. Mr. Jonev.
W. D. Aplin of the Crown Prince mine is in town. He says they are piling up yellow milling ore at the north of the tunnel.
The South Ledge at Pyramid.
J. E. Jones came in last night. He says they have got through the south ledge and found twenty feet of ledge matter, some of it good quartz but not rich in metals. It will not be prospected at present. It is 166 feet from the shaft. The flow of water in the mine is much less than it was and is giving no trouble.

THE PLAGUE OF LOCUSTS.

Devastating the Ranches on the Virginia Road—Millions in the Fields and More Hatching Out.

A GAZETTE reporter rode out to Huffaker's last evening to learn the extent of the damage done by the grasshoppers along the road. In all the clover fields bordering the road the pests can be seen in immense numbers. Toward sunset they gather on the tops of the alfalfa, which then looks fairly brown with them. On all the ranches bordering the Virginia road between Reno and Steamboat creek, the insects have already done more or less damage. A. C. Smith's alfalfa has been half devoured by them. Stephen Ede says he has lost 200 tons of hay already. The heppers are very thick in his clover and have eaten about all of his timothy. Just back of Ede's ranch, to the west, McCormick and Lewis are cutting their alfalfa. It appears to be alive with grasshoppers. They rise in clouds as a horse walks among them. The machines in this field are driving the insects down upon Ede's place, and he has more than he wants already. The grasshoppers are still hatching out. In spots on the Virginia road the earth is covered with little black insects. These are young grasshoppers. None of them are yet old enough to fly. So far, the low lands to the east of the Virginia road are comparatively exempt from the pests. A. Longley has everything in readiness, and if the heppers come upon his place he will down with the grass at once.

It seems a matter of wonder to the non-agricultural mind that the ranchers should stand idly by and see the tall clover eaten by the voracious insects. One might naturally suppose that they would cut and save what they could. Mr. Ede explained this last evening. He said that alfalfa is not fit to cut until it is in full blossom, when the plant has an abundance of woody fibre, and has weight and solidity. Before blossoming, the clover is very tender, and if cut at this stage of its growth the juice all evaporates and very little hay is left. The loss from premature cutting would about equal the damage the grasshoppers could do while the clover is growing.

Grasshoppers are very thick on A. C. McCormick's ranch, on the Arlington Nursery road. He is cutting his clover now.

So far, grain has been little molested by the pests. But they can now be seen trying their mandibles on the wheat in some localities.

Great preparations are being made on the lake for the grand excursion which is to come off at Emerald bay on the 3d of July, and arrangements for the ball in the evening at Glenbrook are about completed.

Cited to Appear in Court.

L. C. Batchelder, James H. Kinkead, L. L. Crockett, G. W. Huffaker and M. C. Lake, were this morning cited to appear before the District Court at 3 o'clock to-day and give evidence under oath regarding the debts, credits and property of the Reno Savings Bank. They are also enjoined to make no transfer of property in their possession belonging to said bank. The order of court was made in the suit of the Verdi Plating Mill Co. vs. the Reno Savings Bank. This afternoon the hearing in the case was postponed until Thursday next.

Decay of the Teeth

Arises from various causes, but principally it may be attributed to early neglect or the indiscriminate use of tooth powders and pastes, which give a momentary whiteness to the teeth while they corrode the enamel. The timely use of that delicate aromatic tooth-wash, FRAGRANT SOZODONT, will speedily arrest the progress of decay, harden the gums, and impart a delightful fragrance to the breath. It removes those ravages which people sustain in their teeth from the use of sweet and acid articles. jun1-1m-D&W

REPUBLICAN PLATFORM.
Following is the text of the resolutions adopted by the Republican National Convention on Saturday, June 3, 1890:
Republican rule has restored upon a solid basis payment in coin for all the national obligations, and has given as a currency absolutely sound legal tender, and equal in every part of our extended country. It has lifted the credit of the nation from the point where six per cent bonds sold at 90, to that where four per cent bonds are eagerly sought at a premium. Under its administration railways have increased from $1,400 miles in 1860 to nearly $100,000 miles in 1890. Our foreign trade has increased from $700,000,000 to $1,100,000,000 in the same time, and our exports, which were $200,000,000 less than our imports in 1860, were $200,000,000 more than our imports in 1890. Without resorting to loans it has, since the war closed, defrayed the ordinary expenses of government, besides the accruing interest on the public debt, and disbursed annually more than $30,000,000 for "soldiers' pensions
